Be Aware of Tax Season Scams

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is again warning taxpayers about tax season scams. They've identified the "dirty dozen" most common scams for individuals, businesses and tax professionals.

They include phishing scams via email or text, bad social media tax advice, fake IRS individual online account help, fake charities, false fuel tax credit claims, credits for sick leave and family leave that are no longer available, bogus self-employment tax credits and ghost tax return preparers, among others.

Click here to learn more about these scams and how to protect yourself. And remember, the IRS will never contact you using social media or text message. The first contact from the IRS usually comes in the mail. Taxpayers who are unsure whether they owe money to the IRS can view their tax account information at IRS.gov.

Mechanicsburg Area Senior High School Career Services Office is seeking adult professionals from our community who would be willing to volunteer their time and expertise to serve as mock interviewers for our junior class. Mock Interviews will take place from April 8th to April 15th, and we're looking to fill a variety of time slots. As a volunteer, you will conduct brief, structured interviews with students, and there will be a short debriefing session to provide feedback. Interviews will last approximately 15 minutes. We'll have questions prepared ahead of time for you to ask, so no preparation is required on your end. If you are interested in volunteering, you can access this sign-up sheet to view all open time slots. Feel free to sign up for as few or as many slots as you'd like. Treasury Department Announces Suspension of Enforcement of Corporate Transparency Act Against U.S. Citizens and Domestic Reporting Companies

The Treasury Department is announcing that, with respect to the Corporate Transparency Act, not only will it not enforce any penalties or fines associated with the beneficial ownership information reporting rule under the existing regulatory deadlines, but it will further not enforce any penalties or fines against U.S. citizens or domestic reporting companies or their beneficial owners after the forthcoming rule changes take effect either. The Treasury Department will further be issuing a proposed rulemaking that will narrow the scope of the rule to foreign reporting companies only. Treasury takes this step in the interest of supporting hard-working American taxpayers and small businesses and ensuring that the rule is appropriately tailored to advance the public interest.

“This is a victory for common sense,” said U.S. Secretary of the Treasury Scott Bessent. “Today’s action is part of President Trump’s bold agenda to unleash American prosperity by reining in burdensome regulations, in particular for small businesses that are the backbone of the American economy.”

Harrisburg Hoopla Returns for Its 7th Year

Uniting Fun, Competition and Philanthropy

Get ready to compete for a cause! The Emerging Philanthropists Program (EPP), a special initiative of The Foundation for Enhancing Communities (TFEC), is thrilled to announce the return of Harrisburg Hoopla for its 7th annual event on Saturday, June 7, 2025, at City Island in Harrisburg. This full-day competition brings teams together for a series of exciting physical and mental challenges—all in support of local nonprofits.

“Harrisburg Hoopla is the perfect blend of fun, competition and philanthropy,” said Blake Milbrand, director of development for the American Heart Association and co-chair of Harrisburg Hoopla. “It’s a chance to relive the excitement of field day, take on unique challenges with friends and most importantly, support incredible nonprofit organizations making a real difference in our community.”

The June event invites teams of six to ten participants to compete in various games, including classic field day events and puzzle-based challenges. Each team will represent a nonprofit of their choice, with the top three teams earning donations for their selected organization. A portion of the event’s proceeds will also support the Emerging Philanthropists Fund at TFEC, which empowers young leaders to make a lasting impact in the community.

Last year’s event raised a combined total of $10,335 to support organizations that are creating meaningful change in our community. Previous recipients include Samara – The Center for Individual and Family Growth, Joshua Group, and Junior Achievement of South-Central PA.

“Harrisburg Hoopla is more than just a day of fun and games—it’s an opportunity for our community to unite, champion local nonprofits and inspire the next generation of philanthropists,” said Tashia James, philanthropic officer at TFEC. “We see firsthand this event’s impact on organizations doing vital work in our region each year. By combining teamwork, competition and giving, Harrisburg Hoopla embodies the spirit of philanthropy in action.”

Manufacturers' ASSOCIATION

Billy Beane, Inspiration for Moneyball, to be Keynote Speaker at the Manufacturers' Association's 119th Annual Event

The Manufacturers' Association will host its 119th Annual Event featuring Billy Beane, who inspired the Hollywood hit film "Moneyball", as its keynote speaker. Named by Forbes as one of the "100 Greatest Living Business Minds", An Evening with Billy Beane will be the highlight of the 119th Annual Event held on Tuesday, May 20th, at York College's Waldner Performing Arts Center.

Beane is a name that is instantly recognizable across the world of sports, especially in Major League Baseball with his affiliation with the Oakland Athletics. The former professional baseball player turned executive forever disrupted the game and the world of sports. Known for his innovative approach to team management, Beane's story has captivated fans and industry insiders alike. From his unconventional strategies and use of data analytics to predict future performance to his remarkable rise to prominence, Beane's story serves as a testament to the power disruptive technology and redefining the status quo.

Currently a senior advisor to the Oakland A's, Beane molded the team into consistent winners since taking over as general manager following the 1997 season. Eventually rising to the role of executive vice president of Baseball Operations, Beane shattered traditional beliefs that high payrolls equated wins by implementing an innovative data-driven methodology that led the Oakland A's, with one of the lowest payrolls, to 7 AL Western Division titles, 10 playoff appearances and the historic 20 game winning streak. That strategic methodology is now known as the "Moneyball" philosophy, named for the best-selling book and Oscar-nominated film chronicling Beane's journey from general manager to hero to celebrated management genius.

"At a time when businesses are seeking a competitive edge, Billy Beane's insights on the use of data and analytics will offer our businesses and community a unique opportunity," says Tom Palisin, executive director of the Manufacturers' Association. "By striking parallels between baseball and business, he will inspire our employers with his unforgettable underdog story. His presentation is sure to be a home run with our audience!"

When Beane first introduced his data-driven approach, he faced significant resistance and skepticism from traditionalists within the baseball community. However, the success of the Oakland Athletics in the early 2000's silenced many of his critics and proved the effectiveness of the "Moneyball" philosophy. His dedication to building a successful small-market team and his commitment to his innovative approach have made him a beloved and respected figure in the world of baseball.

The success of the "Moneyball" philosophy inspired a film adaptation of the same name, starring Brad Pitt as Beane. The movie delves into the challenges and triumphs of Beane's unconventional methods and received widespread acclaim for its portrayal of his journey.

His groundbreaking approach to player evaluation and team management forever changed the sports industry. Beane's legacy serves as a reminder that innovation and leveraging new ideas – like data science and analytics for decision making - can yield dramatic success even in the most traditional and established industries. Beane is a four-time MLB "Executive of the Year" award winner and was named by Forbes as one of the "100 Greatest Living Business Minds."

The Manufacturers' Association's Annual Event, hosted this year at York College's Waldner Performing Arts Center on May 20th, will bring together nearly 600 business and community leaders across central Pennsylvania. The Event will also award our outstanding manufacturers, member companies and individuals for their accomplishments and community contributions during the previous year. Association members interested in submitting for one of the awards should visit the Association website Annual Meeting page for applications and information.

For information regarding available corporate sponsorships for the 119th Annual Event, visit mascpa.org/annualevent, call the Association at 717-843-3891 or email at office@mascpa.org. Seating is limited. Individual keynote tickets that include the General Reception for the event will be $100 per guest, with a discounted rate of $85 for U.S. service veterans and active military.
